Individual records of the Aldermer from Manhattan and The Bronx, as appraised by the Citizens Union, were made public yesterday. The Union finds more to praise than it has found in former years. The Tammany leader, Frank Dowling, is almost as warmly commended as Henry H. Curran, leader of the fusion majority.

Of Mr. Curran the report says: "In-telligent and capable fusion leader. To his untiring labor credit for the recog-nized excellent work of this board is largely due."

Mr. Dowling's work is thus summed up: "Experienced and able minority leader. Cooperated in obtaining unanimous approval for much of the board's constructive legislation. Led in opposition to several good measures when expectations of successful opposition to several good measures when opportunity for successful opposition was evident."

The Union says that its committee in

COAL RATE APPEAL EXPECTED.

Railroads' Presidents Will Confer in New York This Week.

The presidents of the anthracite rail-roads will meet at the headquarters of the Trunk Line Association in the latter part of the week to consider the de-cision of the Interstate Commerce Comcision of the Interstate Commerce Commission on anthracite rates. W. H.
Truesdale, president of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, is expected at his office on Thursday or Friday.
It is said that the railroads are considering seriously the taking of the case to the courts on appeal. It is believed that they will decide definitely to do this.

NEW HAVEN CHARGES

Long Bill of Particulars of Government.

Richard V. Lindabury, afterney for William Rockefeller, expressed the fear before Judge Hunt in the United States District Court yesterday that the Government might be holding back important evidence to surprise his client and the other defendants in the New Haven case when they are brought to trial surprise his client and the other defendants in the New Haven case when they are brought to trial surprise his client and been very disappointing to those who had hoped for success for the reorganization plan. charged with violating the Sherman law. For this reason Mr. Lindabury asked that the Government be called upon to give even more details than was included | the next step to be taken may be made. in the bill of particulars filed by Assistant United States Attorney-General Frank M. Swacker, covering sixty-three typewritten pages of allegations con-cerning the various resolutions passed and the acts done by the defendants in furtherance of the alleged conspiracy to monoralize transportation facilities in monopolize transportation facilities in New England. Mr. Lindabury contended that the bill was insufficient and looked to him like a purposely incomplete statement of the particulars of the charges against the defendants.

"It appeared to me, your Honor," said Mr. Lindabury, "that the Government is playing this game with cards up its sleeve."

first appeal for deposits makes it practically certain that there is only one way of reorganization and that is through receivership. Leading security bolders in and out of the immediate holders in and out of the immediate circle of the reorganization committee feel that this will be the final result.

It is thought that the directors and bankers will decide, however, to extend the time for further deposits in a final effort before resorting to receivership. The security holders may be given a further opportunity to deposit, with the warning that if the voluntary plan remains a failure at the end of the extended period for deposits, the road will have to face the expense and delay of a receivership.
